CHICAGO, Oct. [illegible]—Mr. B[illegible] driven to the Northwestern depot [illegible] morning accompanied by [illegible] Emmons, together with Mr. Joseph [illegible] having passed the night at [illegible] the latter gentleman. A crowd [illegible] 4,000 awaited Mr. Blaine's arrival. It was boisterously enthusiastic, so much so that it compelled him to appear on the platform of the rear coach of the special train where he said:

I thank you very sincerely for this [illegible] stration. It adds one more to many well comes I have received during my [illegible] time could it be more welcome. [illegible]

The special train composed of two drawing room, one dining and one express car was very elaborately decorated with the American colors and bunting. It drew out of the depot at 9:47 and will make the first stop of any length at Rich[illegible]. On board the train were ex-Gov. Rich[illegible], Chestnut Hurlbut, A. Taylor of the Western [illegible] Congressman Jo[illegible] and [illegible] J. B. Hawley of the city.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. [illegible] could not have [illegible] greater honor [illegible] in this city to-day. [illegible] noon all train[illegible] visitors from every [illegible] reception at the depot [illegible] ing was most [illegible] Blaine spoke to nearly [illegible] and thousands were out [illegible] follows:

Citizens of Wisc[illegible]: The republican party had its birth in the north west and it has always found its strongest support [illegible]. A procession was then formed [illegible] Mr. Blaine to the depot. [illegible] stopped at the Pankington House, where a committee of fifty German republicans waited on Mr. Blaine and presented him with an address on behalf of the citizens of Wisconsin, highly complimentary to his ability to which he responded in appropriate terms.

A committee of students of the German Lutheran theological seminary of the German southern synod of Wisconsin presented resolutions endorsing his nomination and pledging their votes on November 4th, which had been adopted and which were accepted by Blaine in a few appropriate remarks.

The representatives of the many manufacturing industries of Milwaukee, [illegible] presented a handsome address [illegible] satin, which greatly [illegible]. The Teller-Campbell party are on the run and should be kept there.

Never in the career of James G. Blaine has he proved himself a more gallant knight than when facing the bourbon mob at Fort Wayne last week.

Remember to register on Tuesday. Every voter should look at the registry lists and see that his name is down. There should be no carelessness about this.

We hope to have in a few days an expose of the primaries in the Third ward. But difficulty in getting at any of the records greatly interferes with the prosecution of this work.

By the way, we wonder if Captain Wilder has taken the two Teller votes off his list of voters who are found on the poll list but not on the registration list. If he will only show us a list of other Hill voters, we will help him find more fraudulent votes.

Many voters in this city, who were undecided about which legislative ticket to support, have decided in the last few days to support the Curr-Kittredge ticket. The fraud proven on Chairman McIntyre and the efforts of the Teller men to prevent any investigation have had their effect.

For the past two days we have made our columns interesting by publishing what might be termed the bulls (papal or Irish as you like it) of Chairman Wilder. We regret that we have not another for this morning. Our columns are open to Chairman Wilder to show why he will not let the citizens of this city see the poll lists and other documents connected with the late primary election? We would also like to publish his list of twenty-seven fraudulent votes in the First ward.

The Republic publishes again the vindication of Mr. McIntyre alleged to have been written by the Messrs. Clark. This must be intended for country circulation where it is supposed the answers of the Messrs. Clark have not been seen. The Messrs. Clark state they do not remember to have signed many things in this letter. Were some of the statements forged or did Mr. McIntyre only read a part of these letters. They also stated that they only signed these letters because of misrepresentations on the part of Chairman McIntyre. These are the letters in which Mr. McIntyre wrote a statement to the effect that he was honorable, etc. It were better for Mr. McIntyre's reputation that these letters should never see light again.

It is very unkind in the Teller party to abandon Mr. McIntyre as it does. But it should be remembered that the fortunes of the Teller party are linked with his. Mr. McIntyre was their representative on the counting board and his acts are official. It is no good argument in behalf of the work of Mr. McIntyre to say that he was a good man to detect frauds because he was engaged in committing fraud himself at the primaries. It is said that it takes a thief to catch a thief. This is quite true, but it will only expose frauds on one side. This is not exactly the way the examination of any illegal voting should be carried on. The purpose should be to find all the illegal votes cast and throw them out. But Mr. McIntyre protected himself and his friends and did not look for any except those committed on the opposite side. But there is no evidence yet that Mr. McIntyre found frauds on the opposite side. As an expert he then became useful. He knew how they could have committed them, then made out his charges, and as he was a part of the court, these charges were established as proven.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Republic, has another list of questions for the editor of the GAZETTE. The questions to a large extent refer to prohibition. We can hardly blame the editor of the Republic for turning aside from the real issues because its case is weak. Now the issue in this election is nationally between the two parties, and also locally between the majority of the republican party, and a machine minority. This issue of prohibition is not in the contest except among those who propose to support St. John. The Republic cannot turn the attention of the people from the true issue by such means. At the time of the prohibition primaries last spring and of the suits that followed we were unmistakably for prohibition. At that time the Republic was for itself. Its present concern will be appreciated by the prohibitionists of this city if manifested where prohibition is an issue. We will however refer question 10, which asks, "Are you not aware that there has never been a time in the history of this city when liquor was more openly sold in greater quantity than at the present time?" to the following Teller men, who ought to know about it and see that our laws are respected: Mayor J. F. Humphrey, City Marshal Hurt and Chairman of Police Committee Alderman Thomas Jones. As for the Franceville business, it is a long story, but we shall be glad sometime to go into it for the benefit of our contemporary beginning with the fraudulent registration of 1882, continuing with a detailed account of the way a registry list was voted, and finally bringing the history down to the time when it was feared that the strike might cost Campbell sixty votes. The questions on prohibition we will carefully preserve and answer if desired when prohibition is an issue.

OUR COUNTY TICKET

We would like to say a few words to the candid, thoughtful voter respecting the county ticket which we are supporting at the ensuing election. More and more, as years go by, does it become necessary to closely scan the character and record of the men we select to fashion and mould our laws in the late legislature. In John Curr and C. W. Kittredge we have gentlemen upon whose integrity, honor and purity in private or public life not the faintest reproach can be cast. They have been remarkably successful in their private business and they will bring to the discharge of their legislative duties that wide and mature experience in affairs so essential in a careful, intelligent and conservative legislator. Both are distinctively ranch and stock men. Mr. Curr has one of the largest inclosed ranches in the county some twenty miles south of Colorado Springs and is extensively engaged in sheep business. His interests are therefore allied with others in protecting the sheep industry of the county by the restoration of the tariff on wool.

Colonel Kittredge is an old soldier of the union army, and an old resident of our county. Having once before served us most acceptably in the legislature, he will thoroughly comprehend our necessities now. He has lived on his ranch on Four Mile for the past ten or twelve years, where he is extensively engaged in the cattle business. His interests are and ever have been identified with the cattle industry. No one appreciates the influence of that industry and the great danger which threatens every owner of a cow or calf from the unrestrained driving of Texas cattle through our county more than Colonel Kittredge—he is pledged to the passage of a law by which these Texas herds will be held back and not allowed to drift where they please through the county. At no time in the history of our county have these two leading industries required the intelligent, experienced and efficient support they do today. The county could not produce two men their superior in every requirement necessary to carefully watch over our two leading industries.

Our candidate for county commissioner, Russell Gates, has often been solicited to run for office in this county, but has always refused. He runs now from a high sense of public duty at a sacrifice of personal feeling and personal interest. He is a man of excellent judgment and conscientious devotion to any trust.

This city will give all of these men a large majority as they deserve. It is a ticket that will not be traded but will have the united earnest support of the voters of this city.

The El Paso Conspiracy.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

It is gratifying to the host of friends of an honest and free ballot and majority rule in this county to witness the manly and vigorous stand the GAZETTE has assumed in the contest with the monopoly on one Hill party in spurning the false insinuations of fraud and corruption in the cry of stop thief which they were sounding in the hope of diverting public attention from the real conspirators and corruptionists within their own circle. Continue the good work. Tear off the mask of hypocrisy they now wear as they pose before the public in an attitude of self asserted purity. Lay bare the facts from ward to ward and precinct to precinct that the people may know who it is that, first having stuffed the ballot boxes with illegal Campbell votes in every ward in the city, and when deposited, manipulated the same boxes on a recount throwing out among others a well known Blaine and Logan vote. Never fear that the good sense of the electors of our county will prompt them to return to our legislature a man who is recognized as the head center of a band of conspirators who, having seized the party machinery, are determined to use it by fair means or foul to further their personal ends and perpetuate their grip not only upon the republican party, but also upon the whole people of El Paso county.

Alas! what a spectacle! They first concoct the outrage of disfranchising more than half the republicans of the county by counting out under the direction of Chairman J. E. McIntyre of the precinct committee, the procurer of illegal Campbell votes. Next, Mr. Campbell as chairman of the county committee at the late county convention, availing himself of the preliminary work done by his business partner and political manager, McIntyre, proceeds, in his own interest, to count out the delegates elected by a majority of the republican party, and finally the McIntyre precinct committee, having manipulated the primary poll lists and ballot boxes by counting out the pretended illegal votes, an effort is made to show the light of truth upon the whole transaction. Mr. McIntyre as chairman of the precinct committee is requested to show the poll lists of the votes cast at the late primaries by Mr. D. W. Robbins, a representative republican who was fighting the battles of his country and later the battles of the party in this county long before John Campbell or Mr. McIntyre ever knew there was such a county; he, Mr. McIntyre, loudly informs Mr. Robbins that he has delivered the lists to Mr. Wilder. Mr. Wilder when asked to show the lists denies that McIntyre has given them to him. McIntyre later again asserts that he gave them to Wilder. Who states the truth? One or the other has uttered a falsehood.

But, Mr. Editor, leaving McIntyre and Wilder to settle the question of veracity between them the point is clear, the conspirators evidently intend to secrete the list of primary votes so that the dark work done in stuffing the ballot boxes with illegal Campbell-Teller votes cannot be discovered. These are the methods of the Campbell primary bolters. Such treatment will most surely reach with terrific force upon the offenders and gain scores of votes for the Curr and Kittredge ticket. It clearly indicates the desperation of the conspirators and their willingness to seize every means to carry out the conspiracy.

LITERARY.

THE NOVEMBER CENTURY.

The November Century marks the beginning of the fifteenth year of the magazine (the fourth under the present name), and also the beginning of the most extensive enterprise yet undertaken by its conductors,—the recently announced series of papers on the civil war, by Generals Grant, McClellan, Rosecrans, and others in high rank. The first paper, on "The battle of Bull Run," is contributed by General Beauregard, who adds to his description of the engagement a postscript on the subsequent conduct of the war on the confederate side, and his own relations with Jefferson Davis. The illustrations, some twenty-five in number, are largely from photographs made during the war, or from recent sketches of the battle field, and are by Fenn, Taber, Thulstrup, Redwood, and others. The first part of the "Recollections of a Private" begins with the enlistment of the soldier, and continues the description of his life down to and including Bull Run, thus supplementing Gen. Beauregard's account of that battle.

That the variety of the magazine is not likely to be sacrificed to the War Series is evident from the other contents of this issue. The frontispiece is one of Mr. Elihu Vedder's illustrations of the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, the Persian poet, five others of which are reproduced, with text by Mr. Horace E. Scudder; "The Chinese Theater," by Henry Burden McDowell, is an entertaining paper, with striking drawings by T. Wores and Kenyon Cox, the latter of whom writes and illustrates a paper on "The Sculptors of the Renaissance"; Austin Dobson contributes a poem, "The Old Sedan Chair," which has illustrations by Reginald Birch. Mr. Joel Chandler Harris (of Uncle Remus fame) is the author of a new story of ante-bellum days in the south, entitled "Free Joe and the Rest of the World," which Mr. A. B. Frost has illustrated to Mr. Harris' entire satisfaction. Mrs. Mary Hallock Foote has drawn a full-page picture to accompany a story of Colorado, by Mr. T. A. Janvier, entitled "The Lost Mine."

The fiction comprises also "A Tale of Negative Gravity," by Frank R. Stockton, and the beginning of a new novel by Mr. W. D. Howells, dealing with the life of an American business man, and called "The Rise of Silas Lapham." In the first part of this story Mr. Howells returns to the Boston life of Bartley Hubbard of "A Modern Instance." Colonel Waring contributes the first of two papers on "The Principles and Practice of House drainage," which are to sum up his best experience as a sanitary engineer. Mrs. James T. Fields recounts "An Acquaintance with Charles Reade," with hitherto unpublished letters, humorous and serious, touching upon international copyright, the American war, the Garibaldians, etc. Bishop Potter discusses "A Phase of Social Science," and George Ticknor Curtis makes some opposite suggestions and proposes an amendment to the constitution in a paper entitled "How Shall We Elect Our Presidents?"

Topics of the time discussed "Lawyers' Morals," "The Bible in the Sunday-school," "Bribery in Politics," and "False Issues." "Open Letters" contains a notable letter from Mr. Cable, entitled "We of the South," and other short papers on "A School of Dishonesty," "Recent Fiction," "Mr. Watt's Pictures," "The Christian League's Practicibility," "A Rallying Point for a New Political Party," and "Church Music." In "Bric-a-Brac" is the first of a series of social cartoons and a variety of light and humorous verse.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR NOVEMBER.

The first number of the new volume contains a heaping magazineful of the good things promised for the coming year, and opens with a beautiful frontispiece in colors, from a painting by A. M. Turner. J. T. Trowbridge contributes the opening chapters of "His One Fault," in which the hero, through "his one fault" of heedlessness, sets in motion the train of consequences which will follow him and interest the reader through the entire volume; and in another serial, "Among the Law Makers," the author, Edmund Alton, relates his often amusing experiences while a page in the U. S. senate, tells many new anecdotes of public men, and gives a graphic and easily understood account of the organization of the national government.

Frank R. Stockton, in the first of his "Personally Conducted" papers, takes his party of four hundred thousand girls and boys to some of the monuments of Roman greatness found in other countries. To boys who are "Ready for Business," George J. Manson proposes to give, under this title, the results of his interviews with representative men in various branches of trade; the first paper treats of "A Retail Drug Store."

Other attractions peculiar to this number are a capital girl story, by Louisa M. Alcott, the first half of a boy story, by H. H. Boyesen, and an exceedingly clever satirical sketch, by F. Marshall White, entitled "The Cruise of the Pirate Ship 'Moonraker,'" showing the pernicious effects of reading trashy literature. "The Princess' Holiday" is a delightful poem by Nora Perry, with illustrations by R. B. Birch, whose clever pencil is also seen in the engraving and illustrating of another poem, "Willow-ware"; and Alfred Brennan performs a like office for Miss Eva L. Ogden's "respectful perversion" of "The House that Jack Built."

An instructive paper, by Charles G. Leland, on "Metallic Bandwork and Nails in Decoration"; the usual (and some unusual) departments, including the "Cartoon Page," a new feature, close a number of which the foregoing are but the leading features.

LITERARY NOTES.

Dr. Edward A. Freeman has been appointed professor of modern history at Oxford.

Messrs. Cassell & Co. are to add an American edition of The Quiver to their list of periodicals.

The Orange Judd Publishing Co. have in press a new edition of Wright's Practical Poultry Keeper.

Messrs. Holt & Co. are receiving the first pages of Mr. Conway's new book which will be published in London and New York on November 1ket. It is entitled Dark Days.

Admiral Porter, the author of Allan Dare and Robert Le Diable, is in a hale and hearty old age. He spends the winters in Washington, and the past summer he has been in Newport.

D. Appleton & Co. have in press for immediate publication a new edition of John Stuart Mill's Political Economy, with elaborate notes by Professor J. Laurence Laughlin of Harvard college.

Mr. Julian B. Arnold, a son of Edwin Arnold, is now in this country superintending the publication of an Arnold Birthday Book edited by his sister, which is in press by D. Lothrop & Co. of Boston.

Mr. Worthington of New York will publish shortly The National Gazetteer and Geographical Dictionary of the United States. A million references, it is said, have been made in obtaining information and authenticating it.

The enormous expense of the photogravure process debars its common use for book illustrations, but Cassell & Co. will employ it on a set of character drawings from Dickens, by Barnard, which will be brought out for the holidays.

Scribner & Welford issue a short List of Works on Rural Sports, Pastimes, etc., which forms a sort of brief bibliography of sporting literature. Angling, Boating, Cards, Coaching, Dogs, Horses, Hunting, and Chess are its leading divisions.

Robert Clarke & Co. of Cincinnati, have printed a catalogue of two valuable private libraries which have come into their possession, and which are particularly rich in history, biography, and travels, in America, and in works relating to the late civil war.

Among the good things which are to be given in the Christmas number of Harper's Magazine is an article by William Black, "A Few Days More Driving." It relates the adventures of a coach-and-four journey made last summer at the invitation of Mr. Andrew Carnegie. The road lay through Winchester and Salisbury.

The final pages of the Carlyle biography are now passing through the press. The concluding portion will be called Carlyle in London, and Mr. Froude defends himself from his critics in regard to his disposition of the Carlyle manuscripts. The Messrs. Scribner will have the work ready this week, in two editions—a library edition, two volumes, and a single volume popular edition.

[illegible] nance The lot [illegible] drawn up which will be presented to the executive board of the Knights of Labor

Resolved, That we the miners of this place [illegible] have to say that we want fixed a fair monthly tariff before we resume work again

First—We want a check weighman, to fill the right rights of the law of this state

Second—We will fill twenty hundred of coal to the ton, in place of twenty four hundred, which is being exacted from us as a body of men

Third—We want the eight hours per day for day work, if a miner is called out of his room to work company work

Fourth—If a miner comes with an obstruction in his room, in the shape of rock faults of any description, that he shall be paid by the employers for at [illegible] the day's work, while [illegible] fraction extra in aforesaid mines or mines' rooms

Fifth—We want proper ventilation in the mines owned by the company, proper escapes for the men in times of danger, proper travelling ways for the men, all of which we have not got

Sixth—We wish to abolish all truck system which is being carried on When we work for our money we wish to handle the same from the company, and pay our own debts. We wish to spend our money where and how we please without being discharged from our employment for so doing Far we realize that five dollars saved is as good to every man as five dollars earned

Seventh—We wish to abolish the [illegible] system which is being carried on by company agents. In sending our boys [illegible] places of employment, as they claim free transportation, and after such a boy has earned enough money, they charge him with the price of his ticket

A Denial

The following, clipped from the Record, will be read by many of our Colorado Springs readers who are interested in mining property at Gothic

"Who is Hess is often asked by our miners. Their principal reason for asking this is their desire to get a peep at one of the most bare faced, shameless liars that ever swung a lip.

Some time ago, our attention was called to an article in the Colorado Springs GAZETTE, signed by one Hess As near as we can remember, he said the Buffalo, a claim owned by T. Shideler & Co, was covered by a great many feet of snow and had not been worked for three years This we knew to be a first class lie, for the Buffalo, to our certain knowledge, had been largely worked ever since its location in 1879 Mr. Hess, not content with lying about the Buffalo, must try to get in his blackmailing work on another meritorious property in which Mr Shideler is interested We refer to the claim known as the Fourth of July. This week we visited that property. We found it to be a rather extraordinary mine, it being an apparently true fissure, in crystallized lime We found the vein to be about five feet wide, good, well defined walls, the vein matter being a carbonate material, consisting of iron and lead carbonates, the lead carbonates commencing very near the surface of the ground are showing plainly in the roof of the drift, for over 25 feet, the streak varying from three to seven inches in thickness.

When Mr. Hess said that there was only a few pounds of ore in sight in the Fourth of July mine, if he had ever been there, he he knew he was telling a willful, bare-faced lie What his object was, is beyond our comprehension. Perhaps he wishes to blackmail a few of the Colorado Springs owners of the Buffalo and Fourth of July mining claims.

It should not be forgotten that the joint debate on Monday evening between the congressional candidates will prove a forensic engagement far above the ordinary campaign meeting Both candidates are men of intellectual attainments much above the average and they will probably light this friendly battle on the high plane of reason. Either would make a fatal mistake to play the demagogue before the audience that will greet them Monday evening. Large numbers of people are coming both from Pueblo and Denver and our ladies who desire to hear the discussion should go early or they may be left without seats.

The Great Need in Colorado

For the Gazette.

It will be seen by reference to the Internal Revenue reports—revised to October 1, 1884, that the retail saloons of Colorado number 3,047 and that from 1880 to 1883 the increase of the liquor traffic has been 78 per cent For the 10 years ending 1883 the number of liquor dealers increased from 371 to 2,506, or 598 per cent., while the population for the same period increased only 388 per cent The per cent. of increase of prisoners was 126 The ratio of voters to each saloon in our state in 1880 was only 37 The ratio at present about [illegible] to each saloon

Colorado stands at the head of the list of states in which the liquor traffic has increased, showing a larger per cent of increase in this industry than any other state or territory

Well, do we not need to do the thoughtful conscientious and earnest work of a change of state policy toward the infamous liquor business? Certainly it must. But from whence will come our help?

Ben Eaton, the republican candidate for governor, is quoted as saying in his speeches recently, while the republican [illegible] to all company men "[illegible] to the Knights of Labor and not to be expected to [illegible] a ticket favorable to the Knights of Labor. That the republicans and democratic parties do not differ on the question very much, [illegible] and Democrats neither, or rather to stand on the fence, is to let the train go by but to remain on our population, and fastening itself more and more firmly in our body politic

The need then ought to be apparent to every candid mind—[illegible] published

MISS M. A. CARPENTER, Manager.

E. W. Edwards, W. H. D. Merrill and N. W. Bacon spent yesterday.

Lulu Hurst at the opera house on Tuesday night. Go and see her wonderful performance.

Mr. L. R. Allen has on exhibition at Ainsworth Brown's some very fine chalk and ink sketches.

The services at the Presbyterian church to-day will be conducted by Rev. J. S. Black who will preach both morning and evening.

Mr. C. W. Keck leaves Colorado Springs this morning on a visit to old friends in Minnesota. He expects to be absent about six weeks.

Rev. Mr. Powell of the Baptist church will speak in the Gospel meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms at 4.30 this afternoon. All are invited to attend.

Mr. W. H. Leod, traveling salesman for Henkle & Co., of Pueblo, was in the city yesterday. He contemplates giving up his position shortly and returning to Illinois.

Messrs. George Elwell and F. M. Doudna leave to-morrow on a hunting trip in the Bear river country. If they meet with the same success that other parties have that have gone from here they will return home with flying colors.

According to the weather observations taken at Colorado college the highest temperature yesterday was 58° and the lowest 36.5°, and the velocity of the wind 107 miles. For the preceding day the temperature was 48.70 and the mean barometer 24.211 inches.

Harry Dills who for some time has been in the employ of Messrs. Bacon & Carr died from typhoid fever at the Crawford house shortly after twelve o'clock on Friday night. His relatives have been telegraphed to but no response has been received as yet.

Jim McLean has opened up a restaurant in the place formerly kept by Maxwell on Pike's Peak avenue. Jim has the reputation of being a first-class caterer, and his long residence in Colorado Springs will guarantee him the patronage of the many friends he has made here.

The ladies of the Springs who desire to hear the issues of the campaign intelligently discussed by Judge Symes and Mr. Thomas should not forget that the only way to secure seats will be to go early. There is sure to be a jam and few women could stand up for three hours at a stretch.

The GAZETTE yesterday stated that there had been a change in the firm of Howbert Bros. The style of the firm in the future will be Thayer & Howbert, composed of Mr. Frank S. Thayer and Mr. Irving Howbert. Mr. Frank Howbert will however remain in the store in the interest of his brother.

To-morrow night the joint discussion between G. G. Symes, the republican candidate, and Charles S. Thomas, the democratic candidate for congress from Colorado. This will be one of the most exciting political meetings of the campaign. The meeting will be called to order at promptly 7:30 o'clock in order to give both speakers the time allotted, one hour and a half each.

The services of the Congregational church at the opera house to-day will be commemorative of the organization of the church ten years ago. In the morning the pastor will preach a sermon appropriate to the occasion. In the evening a history of the church will be read by Rev. J. N. Bartlett one of the original members of the church. Letters will be read from Rev. J. G. Dougherty, presidents of the college and pastors of the church in early days. Brief addresses will be made by the pastor and Rev. R. O. Bristol.

A musical entertainment of a very select character will be given in the music room of The Antlers next Thursday night for the benefit of the association free library and reading room. Those who will take part in the programme are nearly all guests of The Antlers. There are a number of very fine musicians at the hotel, including several professionals, and the entertainment will be above the average standard of excellence. A full programme will be given in another issue of the GAZETTE.

At the Baptist church to-day there will be the usual morning service. Subject, "The Removal of Great Obstructions." Evening subject, "Christ's First Disciple." Rev. T. W. Powell has consented to remain as acting pastor for a period of three months with the expectation of a permanent settlement at the expiration of that time. While laboring in important mission fields in this further east he has proved himself very efficient both as preacher and pastor and the church here is happy in securing him as its leader. All persons are cordially invited to attend the services.

Mr. Harry Dills who for some time has been a resident of Colorado Springs and an employee of Messrs. Bacon & Carr, died very suddenly shortly after midnight on Friday from typhoid fever. He had been sick but a short time and his death was entirely unexpected. Arrangements had been made to have his funeral and burial here as telegrams sent to Mrs. Tolliver his aunt residing at Cheyenne, had not been answered. Mrs. Tolliver however arrived last evening and shortly afterward a telegram was received from Mrs. Demea Dills, mother of the deceased, at Parkersburg, requesting that the remains be forwarded east for interment. The request will be complied with and the remains forwarded to-morrow morning.

BORN.

HAHN—On October 25, at the Crawford house to the wife of Mr. John Hahn, a son.
